Raising the flag of Ukraine

Members of the Ukrainian community in Bradford West Gwillimbury came together on Aug. 23, to celebrate Independence Day of Ukraine, and raise the Ukrainian flag - blue, representing Ukraine's sky, mountains and rivers; and gold, representing fields of wheat - at the Bradford Courthouse.

It was a salute to Ukrainian culture and heritage. Many in the all-ages crowd wore traditional embroidered costumes, and joined in the singing of both Canadian and Ukrainian national anthems.

"Canada was the first country to recognize the Independence of Ukraine, 24 years ago," said Conservative House Leader Peter Van Loan. One of five Canadian politicians facing sanctions from the Putin regime, and banned travel in Russia, Van Loan spoke of "the suffering under the Communist regime," and the Holocaust - the government-sanctioned genocide by starvation, under Stalin, that killed as many as 7.5 million Ukrainians in 1932-33.

"Ukraine continues to make progress," Van Loan said, although there has been no resolution of the current incursions by Russian-backed separatists. "We will continue to show our solidarity with the great people of Ukraine."

Bradford West Gwillimbury Mayor Rob Keffer was joined by Deputy Mayor James Leduc, and Councillors Peter Ferragine, Peter Dykile Jr., Gary Lamb, Gary Baynes, and Marc Contois, in proclaiming August 23 as Independence Day of Ukraine in the municipality - and presented both the proclamation and a photo, taken this summer at the Holocaust Memorial in Edmonton, to the organizers.

For Councillor Dykile it was a special occasion, celebrating his Ukrainian heritage "on a beautiful sunny day... It represents our hearts. Our hearts are open."

The event saw recitations of poetry and songs, servings of traditional Ukrainian cabbage rolls and perogies, and prayers, for the future of the country. Rt. Rev. Conrad Dachuck, of St. Catherine of Alexandria Byzantine Catholic Church, prayed for the future of the country: "Save Your people and bless Your inheritance... and in the power of Your cross, protect Your community."

Certified municipal managers

Bradford Times Staff
Bill McKim, executive director of the Ontario Municipal Management Institute was in Bradford West Gwillimbury council, Aug. 18, to present 10 town staff members with their Certified Municipal Manager designations.

"These awards recognize the staff of Bradford West Gwillimbury in their achievement," McKim told Council.

Certification is based on training, educational updates, and work experience, with four levels of CMM available in approximately 30 different professions, ranging from fire and police, to municipal law and municipal management.

The 10 staff members achieved certification in June, and while Bradford West Gwillimbury doesn't have the most certified employees - that honour falls to the County of Wellington, with 70 staffers - McKim noted, "There's never been 10 at once. This is very impressive."

He noted that 15 town staff members already have their CMM designation.

Certification acknowledges "career development and career recognition... It recognizes their depth and breadth," McKim said. He was joined by BWG Mayor Rob Keffer in handing out the certificates.

South Simcoe considers collision reporting centre

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

Accident Support Services International made a pitch to the Bradford West Gwillimbury-Innisfil Police Services board, on Aug. 24, making the case for a new collision reporting centre in South Simcoe.

In some jurisdictions, including Toronto, citizens involved in minor collisions that don't involve personal injury or criminal activity, have been able to file their reports at collision reporting centres, within 24 to 48 hours of a crash. The option can "maximize the officers' availability for higher priority calls... as opposed to spending an hour, hour and a half at the side of the road," said Rob Gutwein, vice president of sales and operations - and reduce the amount of time victims of the collision spend at roadside, waiting for the investigation to be completed.

Gutwein was joined by Manager of Operations Jacqueline Fountain, who described how the collision reporting centres work, and their benefits.

In the two decades since the first collision reporting centres were established, they have been successful in reducing demands on police time, and improving service to the public - at no charge to police or taxpayers. The centres - which now number about 30, across the province - are paid for by the insurance companies, which all have representation at the centres, speeding up the filing process.

"This is entirely funded by the insurance companies," Gutwein said.

He suggested that, based on historic records of 834 property damage collisions in South Simcoe in a year, a collision reporting centre would free up the 1,350 officer hours spent at roadside - equivalent to 87 of a full-time officer.

A short video stressed the efficiency of the system, in removing collisions from the scene quickly and preventing "secondary collisions," expediting the claims process for drivers, and freeing up officer time. "The people of Toronto are very comfortable in reporting their collisions this way," said then-Chief Bill Blair. "We'd never go back to where we were."

The proposed location of the new centre would be at South Division in Bradford, where a second floor space and currently empty office could provide both waiting area and desk space. A single centre would service all of South Simcoe; Gutwein pointed out that there are only two collision reporting centres in Toronto.

Vehicles involved in a crash would be towed to the centre, where detailed photographs would taken of the damage, before the vehicle is taken to the insurance company-approved repair shop. The result is less red tape for drivers, less fraud for insurers - and exit surveys have found 95-97% customer satisfaction, he said.

The presentation was received by the board, which asked for a report back from staff.

Deputy Police Chief Andrew Fletcher, asked about the collision reporting centre in Halton Region, explained that Halton Police still attend crash scenes, to assess the situation and ensure that there are no injuries or criminal activity involved - But instead of spending an hour and a half at the scene, can usually complete the evaluation within 20 minutes, freeing up officer time. He pointed out that any resident is still free to demand an investigation by an officer.

Election? Who cares? How 'bout those Jays?

The election campaign is taking a back seat right now to Toronto Blue Jays Mania.

It has been almost a quarter century since the euphoria over Canada's team was anywhere close to where it is today.

The team, born in the frozen climes of Exhibition Stadium in April 1977, has languished since back-to-back World Series titles in 1992 and '93.

In a long-suffering sports market that has seen very little success other than the odd Argo blip, the Jays again have captured the hearts of a nation. A month ago, the team was left for dead in the wake of the big bad Yankees. This week, they are in first place in the tight American League East division, but comfy in a wildcard spot.

Tired of being the kid on the beach who gets sand kicked in his face, the brain trust of the team spent the farm to get high-priced talent. An ace pitcher, a slugging shortstop, a speedy outfielder and some bullpen depth later and this team is on fire.

Suddenly, it is impossible to get a ticket for the Rogers Centre, which is selling out even hosting dormouts such as Oakland on a Thursday afternoon. Unheard of.

Every night the team seems to set TV ratings records, quickly approaching two million viewers a game.

Hockey remains Canada's signature sport and we all have our favourite regional teams. The same is true of the CFL, with the Saskatchewan Roughriders' Green Army the closest thing to a national coalition in that loop.

The Raptors are similar to the Jays in that they are Canada's only team in their league. As a result, we saw a glimpse of the fever in the NBA playoffs. But the Raptors sputter, and until they get over the hump and capture more of that ever-growing youth basketball demographic, they won't be Canada's team.

The Blue Jays — as long as they're winning — are Canada's team. The power of a fan base coast to coast is undeniable. West Coasters and Albertans turn Seattle Mariners games into home games for the Jays. Fans in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and northwestern Ontario take over Target Field when the Jays play the Minnesota Twins. Southern Ontarians do the same in Detroit and Cleveland; Maritimers for the Red Sox, Yankees and even Tampa Bay.

When Don Cherry told Canadians to vote Jays' third baseman Josh Donaldson into the all-star game, they listened.

Wouldn't it be so Canadian to have a World Series game on election night?

— Fred Rime

SUMMER WRAPS UP AT THE LIBRARY

With less than two weeks until the start of school, the free TD Summer Reading Club for kids ages 3 to 12 has wrapped up at the Bradford West Gwillimbury Public Library. In total, a record-breaking 13,050 books were read by the summer readers.

The wrap-up included a VIP Movie Screening on August 13. TD Summer Readers earned ballots to vote on the movie they wanted to see, and were later invited to the special event. Their choice? The newly-released film, Home.

Children also walked the red carpet, had a photo taken in front of the celebrity screen, and could "bid" in the silent auction, using their ballots, on great items donated by community businesses.

The final party on August 14 was carnival-themed. Children were invited to enjoy carnival games, face-painting, popcorn, and a surprise visit from Clifford the Big Red Dog, all while collecting great prizes.

Town considers tax rebates for heritage homes

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

Bradford West Gillmurray council was asked to consider providing a 40% property tax rebate to owners of designated heritage buildings who properly maintain the structures. The recommendation came from the BWG Heritage Committee.

"My first thought is, wow, that's a lot of money," said Councillor Peter Ferragline, but on reflection, he said, "I think you need to have a high incentive, to keep heritage in this town."

Council was not prepared to endorse the idea, without further information on criteria and the financial impact of the incentive.

Councillor Mark Contols, while supporting the concept of incentives for heritage, asked staff to provide a list of the town's Century buildings, and review what other municipalities are doing, "what kind of incentives they give." He also called for clarification, of what would and would not be eligible for the rebate.

CAO Geoff McKnight proposed "staff will report back with a draft policy that follows the permission set out under the Municipal Act." He noted that, if approved, homeowners would be required to sign an agreement with the town, setting out the level of maintenance required – and spelling out the repercussions of not living up to the agreement.

McKnight noted that 40% was the maximum tax rebate permitted under the Municipal Act; council could choose a lesser amount, or provide no grants. If the town does opt for a tax rebate program, the County of Simcoe will match the reduction on its portion of the property tax, he said – as long as the homeowner maintains the property.

Councillor Peter Dykier Jr. asked for a "rough estimate of what this might cost us," the number of potential applicants, and the impact on the budget.

Councillor Raj Sandhu agreed, asking that the motion be deferred until the staff report comes back. "I don't feel comfortable agreeing to 40% until we have all the facts."

Council voted to wait for more information on the financial impact, and details of the rebate program.

Mayor Roh Keffner, who sits on the Heritage Committee, agreed with the decision.

"The Heritage Committee wants to get it on the floor. They realize council has to... look at the tax implications."

The bells of St. Catherine's

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

In a special service at St. Catherine of Alexandria Catholic Church in Bond Head, August 16, Rt. Rev. Mitred Archbishop Conrad Duchack re-dedicated the church's bells – a small bell dating back to the original Trinity Anglican Church founded by Rev. Featherstone Osler, and a new, larger bell recently donated to the church.

Father Duchack shared the story of the new bell, a tale that had its roots in Welland, Ont., where he led three churches – St. Michael's Ukrainian, a Slovak Catholic Church, and St. John's Hungarian Catholic Church, located across the road from the Hungarian Presbyterian Church. Although divided by language in their home countries, the churches in Welland got along well, attending each other's fundraisers in support of the faith community.

On a visit back to Welland about three years ago, Father Duchack saw that the Hungarian Presbyterian Church had closed its doors, and was up for sale. The hell sat outside, on a metal tower.

He called the realtor, and asked if this church could purchase the bell. The answer was no: the hell had been a gift to the Hungarian Presbyterian Church, which would give the bell to St. Catherine's. All they had to do was come and pick it up.

Father Duchack and two volunteers drove down to Welland with a flatbed truck – only to discover that the bell was far heavier than expected. Cast in Troy, New York circa 1900, the steel bell weighed about 700 lbs.

While they were standing there, wondering "How are we going to move it?" a passerby stopped to ask if he could help. He owned a crane.

The bell was lifted on to the truck, and delivered to the parking lot at St. Catherine's, where it sat for the next three years, while the church puzzled over the next step: how to install it in the church tower.

It was last June at the Pilgrimage for St. Jude – the Patron Saint of Lost Causes and Hopeless cases – that an attendee saw and asked about the bell. Learning the story, the woman volunteered to find an installer, contacting the Anglican Diocese and tracking down expert Martin Eklertsen, in Kingston.

On August 5, the bell was finally installed – fitting through the opening with half an inch to spare – but that's not the end of the story.

The cost of installation was over $4000, a big bill for a church that is struggling to maintain its historic building.

It was the legacy left to the church by the late Iida Yaz of Scarborough, and a donation by Rt. Rev. Duchack, in memory of his parents Albert H. and Anne (Boris) Duchack, that made it possible.

"St. Jude, in his own way, took care of the hell!"

At the rededication service, Father Conrad said, "The hell, in a way is a call. It is a call to worship, a joyful noise." He noted that the original bell had a faint note that could barely be heard beyond the confines of the tower, and was drowned out by the hymns. The new hell has "a more majestic tone – the majesty of our calling to worship. It is like an Evangelizer, calling people to worship, calling people to God."

Praying for all those who made the hell's installation possible, Father Duchack said, "We have much to be grateful for. That sound will inspire you to lift up your voice, to lift up your righteousness... In memory of all who answered its call to praise God."

DID YOU KNOW

...that feeding the cute little wild animals that visit your yard is actually doing the animals and the ecosystem more harm than good? The Ministry of the Environment warns that feeding squirrels, rabbits, raccoons and other wildlife is dangerous for the animals because:

- Animals can become dependent on artificial food sources;
- Animals can lose their natural fear of humans and pets, becoming more prone to conflict;
- Artificial feed is not healthy for wildlife;
- Wild animals may gather in large numbers when they are being fed – this concentration of animals in one area can spread parasites and disease and cause destruction of natural habitat;
- Feeding animals near roads increases their risk of being hit by vehicles. If you are an animal lover it may be tempting to feed and interact with them, but a better way to show you care is to watch from a distance and keep unnatural food sources (including garbage) out of their reach.

House fire in Bradford

Neighbours use garden hoses to fight a fire in a home on Slack St. in Bradford on Wednesday Aug. 19. Around 3:45 p.m. on August 19, Bradford West Gwillimbury Fire and Emergency Services were called to a structure fire in a home on Slack St. in Bradford. They arrived within nine minutes, to find smoke coming from the roof and eaves of the home, and neighbours, who had called in the blaze, attempting to fight the fire using garden hoses. Firefighters extinguished the blaze, which caused extensive damage to the downstairs family room, and heat and smoke damage to other areas on the main floor. Fire Chief Kevin Gallant estimated damages at about $30,000. "It was caught early enough, I didn't see any structural damage," Chief Gallant said, but the repairs will be extensive. "They'll be out of the house, for a period of time." The fire started in the main floor family room, which was "gutted", but the cause of the blaze is "officially undetermined" at this point, he said, although it is not suspicious in origin. No one was home at the time of the fire, although the owners returned while firefighters were still on the scene.

Tweaking the bus routes

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

Bradford West Gwillimbury transit is proposing changes to its bus routes, after receiving requests from council and consulting with the public, transit co-ordinator Adam Alessandrini told councillors in the Aug. 18 meeting of Committee of the Whole.

Route 1 – the 40-minute bus trip along Holland St. between the GO Train Station and SmartCentre (Walmart) – will add stops at the BWG Family Health Centre at 100 Holland Court and Condominium at 200 Holland Court, eastbound, and continue to service 100 Miller Park both east and west-bound.

The bus will also start fifteen minutes earlier, leaving from the SmartCentre at 6:45 a.m. to arrive in time for GO Train and bus service Mon. to Fri. – and projected travel time will be cut from 40 to 35 minutes, to allow two additional loops per day.

Changes are also proposed for Route 2, the hour-long route that winds through town along arterial roads. Route 2 will add Zehrs Market, and once road construction on Melbourne Drive is completed, travel on Melbourne, providing service to both Holy Trinity Catholic High School and 100 Miller Park.

With all of the additions, and a stopover at the transit centre, which becomes a transit hub for both bus routes, Alessandrini said that some of the existing Route 2 stops will have to be dropped. SmartCentre, the portion of the route along Holland St. East from Barrie St. to the GO station, and the side trip down Simcoe Road to the Danube Seniors Leisure Centre from the route.

Extremely low ridership to the Danube Centre over a 10-month period, and plans to reconstruct Simcoe Rd. south of the 6th Line in 2016, led to the decision to eliminate the Danube Centre stop, at least temporarily.

Riders will be able to transfer from one route to the other at any point where the routes cross – or at the Leisure Centre transit hub. Alessandrini noted that the wait times to transfer to Route 1 or Route 2 buses will vary greatly at the hub, mostly from 5 to 20 minutes. "Worst case scenario is a 30-minute wait. That would happen twice in the day," he said.

The changes will have an impact beyond service levels. To create a stop at the BWG Family Health Centre on Holland Court, parking will have to be eliminated for about 80 metres along the west side of the court, to allow the buses room to turn around.

There is a minor additional cost; the changes will add $3,348 to the cost of Route 1; $2,993 to Route 2. Four new bus pads on Route 2 will cost $4,800.

And there is no guarantee that the new Route 1 travel time of 35 minutes will be achievable. That is something that will have to be tested, Alessandrini said.

Councillors endorsed the proposal.

"The residents seemed quite pleased with the changes," said Mayor Bob Keffert referring to a meeting held with residents of 100 Miller Park. "The seniors are great users of our transit."

"We're going to be listening to the residents, in making changes," said Deputy Mayor James Leduc. Alessandrini later noted that the changes will be implemented sometime in mid-September – once construction on Melbourne Drive is completed. "The sooner that wraps up, the sooner we can begin advertising a launch date."

'It's not just about calling 911': police

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

INNISHT. - The Ontario SPCA and police services across the province have banded together to try and prevent children and animals from being left in vehicles.

'They've launched Operation V.A.L.U.E. - Vulnerable Animals Left Unattended Everyday - to create public awareness.

'It's not just about calling 911 when they see a dog in the car,' said South Simcoe Deputy Chief Andrew Fletcher at the local launch of the initiative, held Thursday at Tanger Outlet Mall near Cookstown. 'It's prevention. It's a year-round safety initiative, whether it's hot days or cold days.'

Research has shown that temperatures inside a vehicle on a sunny summer day - even with the windows open - can quickly rise to over 50 degrees Celsius, enough to cause heat stroke, or even death.

The normal internal body temperature of a dog is 38C to 39C; degrees C; at 40C, degrees, the animal is at risk of heat stroke. At 41 C degrees, the result can be organ failure and brain damage.

Prevention - leaving the dog at home when planning errands, or removing the dog from the car - can not only save the cost of an emergency response, it can save lives, Fletcher said. 'The public can call 310-SPCA to contact an OSPCA Inspector, as well as 911, to report animals left in vehicles. Together, we can make a difference, to make sure pets are safe.'

'Each and every year, we hear those calls come through, of pets left in vehicles,' said OSPCA Insp. Brad Dewar, noting that every year pets suffer and die.

'There are laws to prevent animal abuse and neglect and they need to be adhered to,' he said.

Leaving a pet in a car can result in charges under the OSPCA Act, for causing or permitting distress or harm to animal. On conviction, the owner can face a maximum penalty of a fine of up to $60,000, up to two years in jail, and a life-time prohibition, on pet ownership.

Charges can also be laid under the Criminal Code of Canada, for neglect, abandonment, or causing unnecessary suffering or injury to an animal or bird.

Dewar said that calls to the OSPCA generally jump from about one to two per day, to 10 to 15 a day during the summer months, provincially - many of the calls coming from the GTA, and many involving dogs locked in hot vehicles.

'One death is too many. For me, it's not a stats game, a numbers game,' Dewar said. And he has heard just about every excuse, from owners.

'There is no good excuse for leaving a pet in a vehicle. If you know you're going somewhere, and your pet's going with you, plan.'

In reporting a pet locked in a car, the OSPCA or police will need to know the make of Operation V.A.L.U.E. also reminds drivers to take ensure their animals are transported safely.

'A dog jumping on their lap - that's distracted driving at its best,' said Fletcher, adding a large dog left unsecured in the backseat can become a deadly projectile in a crash.

He said leaving a pet in a hot vehicle could be a sign of other serious issues.

'The people who intentionally neglect or abuse their pets might intentionally neglect their children, or abuse their spouse,' he said.

Repairs proposed for Bond Head War Memorial

Bradford Times Staff

It was Bond Head resident Meade Helman who first brought the state of the Bond Head War Memorial to the attention of Bradford West Gwillimbury council, calling for repairs.

The memorial consists of fieldstone gates leading to Bud Brown Memorial Park, that bear granite plaques inscribed with the names of Bond Head residents who served and fell in World Wars I and II. Built prior to 1950, the fieldstone walls are cracking, the iron gates rusting.

Council asked staff to look into the situation, and on August 18, received a report suggesting it would be necessary to take apart and reassemble the stones, repointing the mortar. Work should also be done to preserve the gates, believed to have been constructed at a local blacksmith shop, the report from Director of Community Services Terry Foran noted.

Cost of the work is estimated at $25,000, proposed as a capital item in the 2016 budget.

"I was there today, and it definitely needs something done," said Councillor Ron Orr, supporting the recommendation.

Councillor Gary Baynes pointed out that the repairs will be a 2016 budget item, "not approved and done now".

Mayor Rob Keffner supported the work, pointing out, "It is a significant landmark in Bond Head. Veterans of the Great War and World War II, it's in recognition of them."

Council voted to receive the report, for consideration at budget time.

BRADFORD TIMES STAFF

A study by the Active and Safe Routes to School national movement has estimated that 41% of school-aged children are driven to school, instead of walking – contributing to childhood obesity, poor lifestyle choices, and traffic chaos.

That statistic – and the problems reported from around Bradford schools – led the Bradford West Gwillimbury Active Transportation/Recreation Committee to approach both the Simcoe Muskoka Catholic District School Board and the public Simcoe County District School Board regarding a possible partnership to “encourage parents and children to use human-powered transportation, in a safe and responsible way, as an alternative to vehicular transportation.”

On August 18, council endorsed the partnership, to introduce school travel planning at selected local schools and promote walking.

Active Transportation Committee Chair Gary Baynes explained that representatives of the school boards had attended a committee meeting, and responded “enthusiastically” – willing to work with the town, to choose schools for a pilot project.

Asking for council’s support, Baynes said, “We’d really like this to go forward.” Council endorsed the resolution and agreed to forward copies to the SCDSB and SMDSB, in time for their next board meetings.

Deputy Mayor James Leduc said the committee was “pushing for an Oct. 6 International Walk Your Child to School Day” start for the walking program.

Brief

First Rider program returns

The Simcoe County Student Transportation Consortium is offering its First Rider Program for parents and guardians of all Simcoe County kindergarten and primary age students.

The program offers new students an opportunity to experience riding on a school bus, during a free one hour information bus safety program for first-time school bus riders.

No registration is required. Students and their parents/guardians may attend any of the sessions, at any school, including St. Jean de Brebeuf Catholic School in Bradford, on Saturday, Aug. 29 with sessions at 9, 10 and 11 a.m.

The consortium provides transportation for both public and Catholic schools. For information see www.simcoecountyschoolbus.ca.

Everton McDougall, VP of Sales for North America for Gsus Industries and fashion consultant, has donated a large quantity of ladies’ and youth designer jeans to CONTACT Community Services.

The jeans, which have a manufacturer’s suggested retail price of $150 to $275, will be offered for sale this weekend to raise funds for CONTACT’s programs and services, including the Community Hygiene Closet, at a special three-day warehouse sale in Bradford, at the Bradford Community Centre on Simcoe Road.

All jeans will be sold for $30 (no tax), and a collection box will be set up at the old arena, to collect donations of hygiene products (shampoo, soap, toothpaste and toothbrushes, feminine hygiene products etc.), to be distributed free to families and residents in need.

The sale will take place Aug. 28 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Aug. 29 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Aug. 30 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Cash only.

Celebrating the arts

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

Quick question: When was the last time you were excited by the arts – by dance, by the spoken word, visual arts – in Bradford? The last time you “snapped” to show appreciation, or cheered an impassioned performance, in town?

For scores of residents, the answer was Aug. 22 – the date of the summer show by the Bradford Fine Artists, a new association of young artists, photographers, poets, dancers and musicians.

The multi-media show was held upstairs at the Bradford Community Centre, a venue that only underscored one goal of the group: “They’re raising money and awareness for a dedicated performance space, which is what this town needs,” said Daniel Kuzmyk.

Kuzmyk’s in-house studio has been a gathering place for many young Bradford residents, an arts incubator for his own kids and their friends. “They’ve all been in my house, playing, performing.”

But as that talent has grown, and the young artists have become more confident in their work, the need for a permanent gallery and stage has become obvious – a venue where performers like Spoken Word artist Timmaj Hassen, groups like Feverish, Lemons and Happy Pelican, modern dance troupe Simcoe Contemporary Dancers, and artists Brad Houghton, Emily Houghton, Andrea Compton, photographer Coley Hallam and others can share their gifts.

The show was an opportunity to share, to “see the art in this town, see it happen,” said Janie Kuzmyk. She and fellow organizers Brad Houghton and Shelby Thoms thanked the community, local businesses and town council for their support of the Bradford Fine Artists’ vision.

“Our eventual goal, is to have a dedicated space for performances,” said Thoms. “We want young artists in the community to know they can pursue the arts” – be seen and be appreciated.

Timmaj Hassen, who brought the house down with her poetry performances, summed up the spirit of the Bradford Fine Artists, all of them young and determined to pursue the arts: “This takes a lot of courage. We stand up here and hope.”

The South Simcoe Palette Club, one of the first art clubs established in the Cookstown-Alliston area, is holding “The Colours of Expression,” an exhibition and sale at Art Unique Gallery & Gifts, located at 4293 – Line 3 of Innisfil, just north of Cookstown. The exhibit runs to Sept. 28; the gallery is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, see southsimcoepaletteclub.ca or contact Diane Kaczmarek, dianekaczmarek@hotmail.com

Coming up: The Annual BWG Studio Arts Tour, Sept. 18-19-20 showcases 20 local artists and artisans, at eight artists’ studios and two group venues (Art in the Barn on Morris Rd., and the BWG Public Library at 425 Holland St. West) in Bradford West Gwillimbury. Includes the annual Student Art Auction for Goals for Kids. Admission to the self-directed studio tour is free, with venues open to the public from 4 to 8 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Come out and explore the arts! There is a preview of work on display at the Bradford Public Library.

St. Louis Bar & Grill on the greens

BRADFORD TIMES STAFF
St. Louis Bar & Grill in Barrie hosts a successful fundraising golf tournament every year.

And now that Bradford has its own St. Louis Bar & Grill, marketing manager Amber Morrison decided it was time for the town to have its own St. Louis Golf Tourney.

Thirteen foursomes teed off on Saturday morning, Aug. 22, at The Highlands Golf Club in Bradford for the inaugural event - getting out on the greens to raise money for the restaurant's charity of choice, Shining Through Centre for Children with Autism, dedicated to enhancing the quality of life for those diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder.

Golfers enjoyed a perfect day on the greens, then returned to St. Louis Bar & Grill at 541 Holland St. West for a buffet dinner, and prize "swag bag" for every golfer.

The Town of BWG fielded a team - Deputy Mayor James Leduc, Councillors Peter Ferragrine and Ron Orr, and CBO Jack Tosta - but didn't take the hardware. That went to winning foursome, Peter Pereira, Kerry Howe, Joe Bote and Hendrick Amo.

The inaugural tourney cleared over $500 for Shining Through.

Dragon's gold

BRADFORD TIMES STAFF
Canada's Women's Senior C Dragon Boat team beat out Australia for gold at the World Championships in Wexford - taking firsts in the 200-metre, 500-metre and 2,000-metre races.

Local paddler, Judy Vye, was a member of the gold-medal team, and stood on the podium three times.

"First time, I thought I would cry. Second time, I was star-struck by the Lieutenant-Governor. Third time I cried, and couldn't sing," Vye said, noting that Pickering - where she regularly trains - sent a total of 39 paddlers, in different age groups, and several coaches to the championships.

Canada Senior C Women won their 2,000 metre race by 25 seconds - but the 200M dash by only .00977 seconds, and the 500M by .0079 seconds. "The whole experience was hard work, and a lot of fun!" Vye said.

Canada won 57 of the international races. "The spectators and athletes listened to our anthem 57 times. They asked what we fed our athletes, and the answer was 'poutine and beer'" Vye said. "They asked where we hid the motor."

Ricky Brooks and members of the BWG Events Group were in Bradford West Gwillimbury council, August 4, asking councillors to waive the special events permit requirements and enable bylaw exemption fee for "another successful event for the town" — the second annual Bradford Chilifest.

This year, Chilifest will have a new location, and a new date: Zehrs Market at 500 Holland St. West, the same location as Bradford Ribfest, on September 19.

With the proposed date of the festival less than two months away, it was impossible to meet the permit requirements, which demand 120 days notice for major events expected to attract more than 2000 people.

"Just like last year, we're bringing back local vendors, churches... It's good for our economy, and Bradford West Gwillimbury," Brooks said, explaining that safety concerns over ongoing road construction on Barrie St., and reconstruction of the Mary St. parking lot, influenced the decision to move to the Zehrs location. "We do plan on bringing the third annual Bradford Chilifest downtown, to have that economic impact."

Last year's inaugural Chilifest took place on Barrie St., in downtown Bradford.

Brooks told council, "We're confident as a group that we can organize this" despite the tight timeframe, calling the festival a "scaled-down version of Ribfest." Plans call for vendors' booths and food trucks, a Chili Square with up to 20 participating vendors, a licensed beer garden, midway and KidZone, and music on the main stage.

On August 18, council approved the request, but had some criticism.

"Mr. Brooks has proven in the past that he can organize these events," said Councillor Mark Contois, expressing a hope that in future, the BWG Events Group will provide the required information in a timely fashion, and move Chilifest back into the downtown.

Councillor Raj Sandhu agreed. "Mr. Brooks is an experienced event planner... It should be a last minute, when our staff have to struggle."

And Councillor Gary Baynes said that while he supported the request to waive the permit deadline, that might not happen again. "You're at least a two-time offender of pushing the deadlines," he told Brooks.

"By mid-December, we'll have all our applications in place for our 2016 event," Brooks promised, thanking Council for their support.

Councillor Peter Dyke issued a challenge to fellow councillors, to enter a pot of chili at Chilifest. "It's all for fun, it's all for the community." "I'm looking forward to Chilifest," agreed Mayor Rob Keffler. "It's always good to have events the community can enjoy, and get to know the community better."

In Loving Memory of STEPHEN CHORNIENKI

*A thousand times we needed you
A thousand times we cried
If I were alone could have saved you
You never would have died
A heart of gold stopped beating
Two twinkling eyes closed to rest
God broke our hearts to prove he only took the best Never a day goes by that you're not in my heart and my soul
Forever Loved, Forever Missed
